

Nuttapun Supaka, Ph.D

- Senior Director of Partnership and International Relations Section,
- Acting Director of Academic and Innovation Section,

Thai Health Promotion Foundation (ThaiHealth), Thailand

Nuttapun Supaka is the Senior Director of Partnership and International Relations Section and also serves as Acting Director of Academic and Innovation Section, Thai Health Promotion Foundation (ThaiHealth), Thailand. He has spent the past ten years working with his team, partners and Foundation to develop and bring researches, health data and statistics, health promotion innovations, and policy interventions related to health promotion to the national and international stage. He aims to promote healthy behaviors and health literacy by innovative strategies and maximize appropriate health promotion action plans.

Prior joining ThaiHealth, he was Head of Laboratory, Nano Characterization Laboratory (NCL), National Nanotechnology Center, National Science and Technology Development Agency (NSTDA) was responsible for overseeing all operations of the laboratory cover research, development, and any testing service activities. He also spent 11 years on his role with Senior Researcher responsible for researching covers all aspects of advanced nanoscale characterization, measurement, nanometrology, instrumentation, and standardization.

He received an outstanding research award from the Thailand Research Fund in 2015 for his contributions to national regulatory policy for nanosafety and health products. He has published 10 scientific articles.

He earned his Ph.D. in biotechnology from Chulalongkorn University, Thailand and Ph.D. in génie des procédés et de l'environnement from Institut National Polytechnique de Toulouse, France.